Hopes for a fine week-end over B.C. were vanishing as one disturbance moved in over the northern coast followed by a second a thousand miles to the southwest, which is expected to reach the coast late Saturday. Cool light rain has been falling over the southern interior during the night with snow reported at higher levels.

Victoria and vicinity—Clear, becoming cloudy tonight with widely scattered showers over night. Saturday, cloudy at first, becoming clear by afternoon. Light winds becoming southeasterly 15 miles per hour by late afternoon and southeasterly 15 miles per hour overnight. Little change in temperature.

West Coast Vancouver Island—Cloudy southern end at first, elsewhere overcast with intermittent rain becoming generally overcast with rain spreading south along coast and becoming showery this evening. Saturday overcast with rain by evening. Southeasterly winds 10 miles per hour becoming southeasterly 15 miles per hour by afternoon, decreasing to light overnight and increasing to southeast 20 miles per hour by Saturday evening. Little change in temperature.

Mrs. Beckwith Made
2nd Vice-President

PRINCE GEORGE—Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, Oak Bay representative on the Greater Victoria School Board, was made second vice-president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association which concluded its convention here Wednesday.

Ald. F. G. Mulliner was replaced as president by Frank Wilson of Chilliwack, and Harrison Hot Springs was chosen as the site for the 1947 convention.

Mr. Wilson, in accepting leadership of the trustees' organization, stated that too much emphasis is being placed on the technical aspects of teaching today and not enough in making teachers better educated people.

"We have been turning them out with a superficial bag of tricks, and not giving them the spiritual and cultural background that people who teach children should have," Mr. Wilson said.

The convention passed a resolution asking that the Department of Education establish schools of agriculture in B.C., with financial assistance to be given by the Dominion government.

Dr. H. J. Willis, and M. G. T. Perry, former minister of education, were elected honorary life members of the association.

Others named to the executive were Education Minister G. M. Weir, honorary president; James G. Sinclair, Vancouver, first vice-president; Allan G. Fallow, secretary-treasurer; John Barsby, Nanaimo; Harold A. Moffatt, Prince George; Harold Stiffe, Cranbrook; and Mrs. M. R. Cameron, Richmond.

Representing the trustees on other organizations will be David Chapman, Kelowna, on the arbitration board; D. Brankinko on the pensions board; John Barsby to the Dominion trustees convention; James Blackwood, Vancouver, to the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Eye-Witness Says Explosion Was Like Atomic Bomb Blast

"It was exactly like the pictures of the atomic bomb tests at Bikini," said Vic Standerwick, an eye-witness of Thursday's blast at the Canadian Industries Ltd. powder plant on James Island in which three men were killed and two injured. Standerwick operates a small auto court at Bazan Bay on Saanich Peninsula, just opposite the island.

Standerwick, who was decorating a cabin of his auto court when three-quarters of a ton of gelatin exploded in a building at the southern end of James Island, said he at first thought the navy was carrying out gun practice nearby.

"But on second thought I knew it was more than that, so I went outside," he said.

On looking towards the island he saw a huge column of black smoke shooting 1,000 or more feet in the air.

"And then it mushroomed out, just like the atomic bomb blasts," Standerwick said.

"If it hadn't had such terrible effects, it would have been beautiful," he added. "It certainly was awe-inspiring."

Residents of Sidney and other sections of the peninsula felt the blast, and although buildings were shaken by the concussion and windows rattled, no glass was broken.

On James Island itself, many felt the explosion before hearing the ear-splitting blast. One man said the air seemed to press around him a split-second before he heard the explosion. Windows on the island survived the shock, except for those in buildings within 300 yards of the centre of the blast.

Airmen at Patricia Bay R.C. A.F. station thought an aircraft had crashed when they heard the explosion.

"But we soon saw the smoke rising from the island and knew that something had happened over there," said WOI. Barney Stoney.

A half hour after the fateful blast the smoke had cleared away and from the Saanich shore no sign of the disaster could be seen. But on the island the scene was one of desolation with only smoking and blackened ruins remaining.

Mayors Of Toronto, Ottawa
Oppose Increase In Milk Price

By Canadian Press

A quart of milk delivered to the doorstep is going to cost Canadians anywhere from 1½ cents to 3 cents more from now on, as a result of decisions by the various provincial milk boards following the end of the federal subsidy of 55 cents a hundredweight to producers.

In Ontario and Quebec the price is up 3 cents. It's 2 cents higher in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. It's 1½ cents higher in Manitoba. The ninth province, Prince Edward Island, hasn't yet announced a decision.

TO HEAR FROM M.P.'S

In most sections of Ontario the new price will be 16 cents a quart, which threatens to bring strong protests from consumers' representatives in Ottawa and Toronto to the Ontario Milk Board. The price is between 14 and 16 cents in Nova Scotia and British Columbia. It's 15½ cents in most of Quebec and 15 cents in New Brunswick, 14 cents in Manitoba and Alberta and 13 cents in Saskatchewan.

The increase was promptly opposed by Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa and Mayor Robert Saunders of Toronto. The former said he had sent a telegram to Ontario Municipal Minister Durney to "register Ottawa's very strong protest," and Mayor Saunders declared the Ontario Milk Board "flouted the will of the Ontario Legislature" in authorizing the increase.

The situation elsewhere:

In British Columbia, Ernest C.

Carr, chairman of the B.C. Milk Board, said prices will advance Oct. 1 and "almost certainly will amount to a 2 cents a quart increase to consumers. Present prices in Victoria range from 13 to 15 cents a quart."

At Edmonton, officials of the Alberta board announced a 2 cents a quart increase, making the consumer price 14 cents.

Saskatchewan officials said the price was expected to increase 2 cents a quart, over the present price of 13 cents. Provincial Agriculture Minister C. Nollet said the government "is in no position to carry the added burden of milk subsidy payments," and he said he thought a drop in consumption would result.

Manitoba reports stated the price increase in that province would be 1½ cents, making the new price per quart 14 cents. Producers in that province were requesting a further increase, but officials of the milk board said they hoped to "hold the line."

Victoria Match Factory Starts Operation

R. L. "Bert" Challoner, managing director of the Western Match Company Ltd., strikes the first Victoria-made match as two office employees, Mrs. Reta Campbell, centre, and Miss Alys Sampson, watch.

As civic and government officials as well as shareholders and other guests watched, Premier John Hart pushed the button which officially commenced operation of Victoria's newest industrial plant, the Western Match Company Ltd., at 3:30 today.

On Fairview Road at Devonshire Road on the Esquimalt Industrial Reserve, the match factory is housed in an ultra-modern $100,000 building and is equipped with two huge machines each capable of producing 1,125,000 matches an hour.

The $500,000 company, the shareholders of which are mostly Victoria people, has a well-known local businessman, Bert Challoner, as managing director. President of the company is a former easterner, Edwin G. Smith. Approximately 100 guests at the official opening were welcomed by Mr. Challoner and were taken on an inspection tour of the factory. They saw small blocks of white pine from the Nelson district fed into the machines at one end, and at the other saw the finished product, red and white-tipped matches pour onto a revolving table around which girls were seated, packing them into kitchen and pocket-size boxes.

The visitors marveled at the intricate working of the huge match-making machines, and the efficiency of the approximately 50 men and women employed at the factory.

WISHED SUCCESS

All wished the new company success and were enthusiastic in their praise of those responsible for bringing a new industry to Victoria.

Among the guests in addition to Premier Hart at the official opening were the U.S. Consul and Immigration heads, officials of the Department of Trade and Industry, including Hon. Leslie Eyres, minister of the department, and his deputy, E. G. Rowe-bottom; R. W. Mayhew, M.P., Mayor Percy George and reeves of the municipalities, heads of the service clubs as well as managers of local wholesale and paper companies and banks; representatives from department stores, the B.C. Electric Railway Company and B.C. Telephone Company, C.N.R. and E. & N. Yarrow and V.M.D., Maj. H. Cuthbert Holmes, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and P. L. James, architect of the building.

Officials Lacked Confidence, McNaughton Lost Army Command

TORONTO (CP)—Col. R. S. (Dick) Malone, Canadian liaison officer with the British 21st Army Group during the war, says Gen. McNaughton was removed from command of the 1st Canadian Army because authorities "would not take a gamble of risking an entire army to his direction in the field."

Malone reports McNaughton argued with Hon. J. L. Ralston, former Defence Minister, and British war leaders on such matters as the breaking up of the Canadian army formation to send divisions to the Mediterranean, that an important pre-invasion exercise in which he participated, proved "a complete fiasco" and that British chiefs complained the Canadian general appeared to be "playing with bridges" instead of working on tactics.

In the Oct. 1 edition of Maclean's Magazine, the Winnipeg newspaper executive gives his version of the controversial subject of Gen. McNaughton's departure from the army command on the eve of invasion.

WILL NOT COMMENT

(It is reliably learned Gen. McNaughton, now attending New York meetings of the Atomic Energy Commission on which he is chief Canadian delegate, was given an advance copy of the article to read, but told the publishers he would have no comment. Previously he had said he had left with the army historical section, official record material regarding his departure from the army which he hoped would give a "true picture" of the situation when published at an appropriate date in the future.)

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent who followed the Canadian army from Spitzbergen to Berlin, reported in his book "Gauntlet to Overlord" that the chief reason why Gen. McNaughton left the army command was "the battle with Col. Ralston."

MORALE GUARDED

Malone says: "For reasons of home and army morale as well as national politics, only the more acceptable facts were released at the time and in the briefest possible form."

He recalls the official announcement that Gen. McNaughton had asked to be relieved of the army command because of ill-health.

"In actual fact," continues Malone, "Gen. McNaughton's retirement followed a decision made by authorities that the general would not make a successful army commander in the test of action. Their opinions were so strong on this point that despite the national, political and personal repercussions they knew his retirement would cause, they would not take a gamble of risking an entire army to his direction in the field."

The author speaks of McNaughton's wish for a complete Canadian army formation, "a dagger pointed at the heart of Berlin." He says there was bitter opposition to this proposal from those who said Canada's manpower resources would be strained by keeping such a formation in the field.

Malone concedes the army barely scraped through and says the establishment of the army headquarters had in fact been useful in over-all Allied planning, but adds that "just the same, Canada was very lucky that her army did not have to face another three months of heavy fighting. In that event there is no doubt that units would have had to be broken down in the field for lack of reinforcements."

FIGHT WITH RALSTON

Malone writes that Gen. McNaughton was opposed to splitting his army to send forces to the Mediterranean whereas Col. Ralston wanted them sent to gain battle experience. Col. Ralston finally won approval from the cabinet for such a move. "That McNaughton resented this breaking up of his command can be easily appreciated," Malone writes.

Meanwhile the British War Office was finding the Canadian field commander "increasingly difficult" to deal with. It was at this point the pre-invasion "Spartan Exercise" was held.

"The results of this exercise," says Malone, "were carefully kept from the Canadian public at the time; but it can now be told that the exercise was a complete fiasco from the command standpoint. . . . There were periods when the army commander had no idea where his armor was, nor in fact where corps headquarters was located." And from this point on "the War Office was decided that McNaughton would not make a successful field commander."

At this time "Gen. McNaughton was reaching the point where he no longer referred even major decisions back to Canada or respected the views of the Minister of National Defence."

RUMOR FALSE

Malone also writes: "Although rumors had been current for some time among the troops overseas that McNaughton had his eye on the Prime Minister's post in Canada, there is no evidence to support this."

Referring to the general's 1942 return to Canada, the author says the field commander was reported to have privately criticized the government and Col. Ralston. "It is understandable that his remarks should be regarded in some quarters as an act of disloyalty."

Differences between the minister and the field commander were settled, but the British did not change their minds. "As the British put it, McNaughton always appeared to be playing with bridges and conducting other experiments. While this research was necessary and valuable, they felt he should have been employing his time with the problems of tactics and immediate problem of landing his troops on the continent."

Malone also quotes Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as describing as a "complete lie" a report crediting him with a hand in McNaughton's departure from the army command.

Montgomery's Side Of Quarrels With Eisenhower Now Told

To understand the historic quarrel between Eisenhower and Montgomery it is necessary to know the personalities of the men and the background of events.

The controversy was a serious one. Americans like Captain Butcher (Eisenhower's aide) and Ralph Ingersoll (in his book "Top Secret") are critical of Montgomery. Ingersoll argues that Montgomery failed at Caen and jeopardized the entire invasion. He contends that the war would have been ended by Christmas, 1944, if Montgomery had not urged that the bulk of Allied supplies be given him for an attack in the north.

The controversy touched the highest levels. It provoked emotional prejudices. Before it was finished it had brought Eisenhower to the point of ultimatum:

Either he or Montgomery would have to go. Let Washington and London decide.

In short, there are two versions of the campaign in France and Germany. This is Montgomery's side of it, as told by Alan Moorehead, Britain's famed war correspondent, in Montgomery: A Biography. His account of the Eisenhower-Montgomery friction was made possible only by access to Montgomery's official correspondence and other military documents.

The facts are available to you in the Oct. 5 edition of Collier's Magazine, on sale today at your magazine dealers. The article is entitled "Montgomery's Quarrel With Eisenhower."

Collier's Magazine is distributed on Vancouver Island by Lovick's News Agency, Victoria, B.C.

FUEL LOSSES LOW

The engineers at Johns-Manville have made an interesting study. They summed up the overall fuel savings due to all Johns-Manville Insulations now serving industry. They figured these insulations saved thousands of tons of coal in one year. And insulations not only cut fuel waste but also make possible the accurate control of heat which is so necessary in all manufacturing processes.

There's a J-M insulation made to solve every heat problem, anywhere from 400° below zero to 2,600° above. And back of this ability to meet every insulation need is Johns-Manville's 88 years experience in every conceivable type of insulation work.

If you have an insulation problem in your plant, get in touch with Johns-Manville, 199 Bay Street, Toronto; Sun Life Building, Montreal; 156 McPhillips Street, Winnipeg; 1206 Homer Street, Vancouver.

Cold Night, But 'Frost' Just Dew

There may have been a light frost during the night, but if so, it occurred in low places and was not sharp enough to affect crops, the weatherman and Saanich residents said today.

"The minimum temperature during the night was 46 here," an official of the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill said. "The temperature in low places may have been somewhat lower, but what looked like frost in some cases may have been very heavy dew."

Saanich residents said it had been very cold but they had seen no frost.

Report Steel Strike To Finish In Next Few Days; Raises Given

OTTAWA (CP)—A usually well-informed source said here today the steel strike will be settled within a day or so with the employees getting an increase of 10 cents an hour retroactive to April 1 and a further three cents when work is resumed.

This source said it was expected there would be some adjustment in the price of steel to make possible the higher wages. The increase would apply in the Steel Company of Canada plant at Hamilton, Algoma Steel at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Dominion Steel and Coal at Sydney, N.S., where 15,000 went out on strike July 15.

It is understood the unions and companies have agreed to accept the 13-cent increase and will settle matters of union security on which there is some disagreement by further negotiations.

Labor Minister Mitchell, who is in Montreal presiding over the meetings of the International Labor Organization, flew to Ottawa Thursday and conferred with his colleagues in the cabinet, returning immediately to Montreal.

C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), arrived in Montreal Thursday and is understood to have been in touch with the Labor Minister and F. B. Kilbourn, government controller of basic steel.

Steel Price Likely To Be Raised

MONTREAL (CP)—F. B. Kilbourn, government controller of basic steel, confirmed today that new negotiations aimed at settling the wages-hour strike in Canada's basic steel industry were started Thursday and are proceeding. The negotiations are being carried on with C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.).

Mr. Kilbourn said he had no announcement to make at the moment on the progress of the discussions.

Five Families Face Eviction; No Housing Available In City

Five families in Victoria face immediate eviction with no housing available for them, Ald. Margaret D. Christie, chairman of the city welfare committee, said today following a meeting.

"The situation is getting steadily worse," she commented. "We have nothing to offer these people and I don't know just what we can do to help them until we get the release on the army huts either at Macaulay Point or Colwood."

One family has six children, another three, while another is composed of a returned veteran and his mother.

"These families are able and willing to pay a fair rent for accommodation," Ald. Christie stated, "they are not indigent or welfare cases."

The city has already made special application to the federal authorities, through Emergency Shelter Administration, for the huts at Colwood, Macaulay and Gordon Head camps as soon as they are declared surplus. To date no answer has been received on this application although it is understood that all surplus service buildings in this area are being reserved for housing purposes.

Although priority will be given to returning servicemen for housing on such projects, as they will be administered by the Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee, provision has been made to take care of families facing eviction and unable to get other accommodation, whether the man was a member of the armed forces or not.

Ask Docks For Private Boats At Causeway

The harbor committee of the City Council is asking that the Dominion government undertake the immediate building of docking facilities for private boats in the Inner Harbor facing the Causeway. Ald. W. L. Morgan, committee chairman, said following a meeting today.

A plan will be submitted to the next council meeting asking for council endorsement, and then it will be forwarded to the Dominion government for inclusion in the harbor improvement plans, with the added request that this be one of the first projects undertaken.

The plan would call for a fill, 50 feet wide out into the harbor from the present Causeway extending from Belleville Street to the base of the Imperial Oil station at the other end. This would be supported by a retaining wall and would provide a flat promenade approximately four feet above the high water level.

From this fill would be built 10 floats at which the private yachts and other boats could tie up. These floats would be 60 feet long and 18 feet wide, with 33 feet between each one. At the centre would be a bigger one, 90 feet long and 40 feet wide.

The result of this project would mean that private boats would no longer have to drop anchor in the middle of James Bay and the people come to land in small boats.

There is no estimate of costs. Ald. Morgan said, the committee felt that the Dominion government would be able to arrive at that.

A letter was also received by the committee from R. W. Mayhew, M.P., enclosing a letter from Lionel Chevrier, federal Minister of Transport, asking city approval of the government leasing part of the harbor, adjoining the city garbage wharf, to Kelly, Douglas and Co. as a site for a $10,000 wharf. The lease would run for 21 years. G. M. Irwin, city engineer, has been asked if he has any objections to this plan.

6 Feared Dead, Hundreds Missing In Texas Flood

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—At least six persons are believed dead, scores are suffering from injuries and hundreds are missing since the worst flood since 1921 struck San Antonio. Rain continued to fall today.

Property damage is estimated at millions of dollars and literally thousands of residents have been made homeless by the flood waters. More than six inches of rain fell in 12 hours.

Flood water behind the Olmos dam was reported to have reached a depth of 35 feet and traffic across the dam was halted by police orders.

Turned into a raging torrent, Alazan Creek inundated much of the southwestern portion of the city. Woodlawn Lake, overflowing for the second time this month, marooned many residents in that area.

MOTORCARS STALLED

At the height of the flood transportation in many parts of the city was halted and hundreds of automobiles were stalled where their occupants waded to safety across streets where water was running with dangerous swiftness.

Early today police broadcast appeals for boats and outboard motors after army authorities had placed a number of amphibious vehicles and rafts into service.

In response to calls for help from the San Jose area, where more than 50 persons were reported clinging to rooftops, a detail of city and military police was dispatched to the scene.

During the night members of the homicide detail rescued more than 20 persons, many of whom were clad in sports and underclothing and some of whom were stranded in roof tops and in trees.

Red Cross authorities reported 20 persons marooned and in need of help. Police officers were sent to their assistance.

SIMPLE ARITHMETIC

ONE OF THE STRANGEST INTERPRETATIONS of the King government's decision to end the producer subsidy on raw milk comes from a contemporary which says: "There is very evident a form of propaganda to prepare the public for another jump in the price of milk." On the contrary; the Prime Minister's statement told the Canadian people in plain language that the 55 cents per 100 pounds, which the treasury has paid out since the exigencies of war dictated such a policy, is to be discontinued. No intelligent Canadian needs to be propagandized to illuminate the meaning of this announcement. In other words, if Peter refuses to continue to foot this bill, Paul must; and in this instance Peter and Paul happen to be one and the same—the consumer.

Nobody relishes the idea of paying more for milk, despite the fact that it is one of the cheapest and most nourishing forms of food on the market. But we are still paying considerably less for it than our neighbors on the south of us. The point which ought especially to be borne in mind, however, is that the producer subsidy—like the consumer subsidy abolished last May 31—is part of a system of artificial controls designed to assist in the stabilization of the price structure in respect of a basic food commodity. This and other subsidies, therefore, have fulfilled their purpose; they have been productive of the public good in emergent circumstances. None but the purblind will seriously argue otherwise.

Of course milk will now retail at a higher figure here and elsewhere. The only difference is that the producer will get what he has been getting—his 55 cents per hundred pounds—from the consumer more directly than when the government paid it to him. The price went up two cents last June 1 because the national treasury ended the consumer subsidy—restoring the price prevailing nearly four years ago, which the government bonus reduced in accordance with national economic policy.

But the milk and other subventions to industry and enterprise under war's necessity are collected from the Canadian people in the form of taxation all the time; the annual bill for the government to foot from public revenue in respect of the commodity on which attention is at present focussed thus will drop approximately to the amount derived from the increased retail charge. And those newspapers which have been clamoring for the removal of all controls should feel highly delighted at the end of the one represented by the milk subsidy.

DESPITE THEIR CAUTION

THE PRIDE SHOWN BY EMPLOYEES OF the James Island plant of the Canadian Industries Ltd. in the safety awards they have earned over a period of years has reflected clearly their appreciation of the need for caution in their work. Yesterday, however, some combination of circumstances conspired to cause an explosion which snuffed out the lives of three men and seriously injured two others. It brought to an end a stretch of 1,468 days free of accident in the section now completely demolished.

Such a tragedy strikes deeply in this community, many of whose sons are employed at the James Island works. All here recognize the hazardous nature of employment at the C.I.L. plant, and anyone acquainted even slightly with its operations will pay tribute to the important service rendered by the men engaged in manufacture of explosives. They are, literally, handling dynamite. Although they exercise the utmost care, they expose themselves to dangers which the average occupation escapes entirely.

And while citizens extend their sympathy to those bereaved in this tragic accident, they will couple with it an acknowledgment of the record achieved by the plant in holding such calamities to a minimum. At the same time, the public will be quick to commend the speed with which aid was dispatched to the stricken area from the R.C.A.F. station at Patricia Bay and from civil authorities at Sidney.

APOLOGY TO 'BIG BEN'

DURING THE EARLY MONTHS OF THE Second World War, Mr. J. B. Priestley, the eminent author and publicist, did an excellent job in his broadcasts over the BBC. His material was not only informative, encouraging, and colorful; it reflected the spirit of the British people going through "their finest hour." Then, somehow, he developed an autocratic tone and became censorious of everything not done according to his concept of national requirements. But a party recently given in his honor in Denmark evidently evoked an admission from the man who has left an impression on British thinking which is worth repeating. Here it is:

"A man got up and made a little speech that moved me close to tears, a speech of thanks to our Big Ben, which he said, always gave him courage and hope at the worst times; just to know it was there, still booming away, promising that freedom would return. And I remembered how I had often thought this Big Ben stuff one of the BBC's elaborate bits of nonsense, which just shows how wrong one can be, and how other people, even though they may be official persons in black coats and striped trousers, can make better guesses that bring a light at a dark hour."

Though Mr. Priestley could almost be described as a self-constituted autocrat of broadcasting, his conversion to the philosophy of "Big Ben" is something of a tonic. It reminds us that the author of "Good Companions" is still a real person who is big enough to admit his errors. And his recent travels through eastern Europe and Russia as a representative Briton will furnish him with much material for his future contributions toward the cause of peace.

LABOR CAN BE TRUSTED

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S COUNCIL OF the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation resents the idea of taking strike votes under government supervision—either before or during work stoppages. It went on record at its meeting in Vancouver the other day in strong opposition to any procedure which it argues gives the federal Minister of Labor "power to disregard the elected officers of labor unions in ascertaining the wishes of the membership," and which, by implication, "accuses organized labor of irresponsibility."

Of course the C.C.F. dislikes the prospect of the individual exercising his inalienable right to say what he wants without reference to his party mentors. Order-in-Council No. 3689 permits the worker to use a secret ballot where his livelihood is in danger or is likely to be impaired by actions of which he may or may not approve. The suggestion of the Vancouver body that the implication of this procedure is tantamount to an accusation of organized labor's irresponsibility reveals the C.C.F.'s ignorance of the basic beliefs of those leaders of the labor movement whose dealings with their memberships are not suspect. The intention of the federal Minister of Labor is to safeguard the honest toiler against the well-known techniques of popularizing a strike through the show-of-hands process in meetings not difficult to "pack" on occasion.

Nor should it be forgotten that the C.C.F. operates its own disciplinary machinery—despite the fact that provincial leader Harold Winch once boasted that he and his colleagues were interested solely in the preservation of the individual's rights and not in extolling the virtues of the party as an indivisible unit. But he soon retreated from that position when the oligarchy in the east came out in its autocratic colors. Small wonder if the C.C.F., the C.C.L. and the L.P.P. are now being regarded as the triumvirate of regimentation.

Those who are familiar with C.C.F. history in recent years will recall the affair Herdridge and the cases of the party's members in the Manitoba Legislature. The stand taken in Vancouver against Order-in-Council No. 3689, in other words, is altogether in character. But despotism from labor will never thrive in Canada under secret ballot decisions.

TEACHER SHORTAGE

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO THE NORMAL School student who could graduate in June and find employment in some country school the following September counted himself or herself lucky. There were far more applicants than posts throughout the province. During the ensuing years so many who had acquired minimum qualifications for teaching were disappointed by their inability to secure jobs that the training schools began to reflect a sharp decline in enrollment. At one time the number attending classes in Victoria dropped below two score.

Today, with salary averages running from $1,490 in elementary schools to $2,427 in high schools, the province is short 308 teachers. The numbers in training here and in Vancouver are 115 and 200 respectively, and the annual loss through retirement and resignation is placed at 400. These are figures announced by the Minister of Education. The deficiency next year, however, need not necessarily amount to 85—the difference between those now at normal and the number expected to leave the field. Others are securing higher academic certification through resumed studies at University. In consequence, the supply of teachers for high schools is expected to meet or exceed requirements within another two years. That still does not guarantee sufficient instructors for the elementary grades, although the latter will probably benefit indirectly.

The continuing shortage in British Columbia is attributed largely to conditions arising during the war. Those who left the profession for higher-paid war industries and those who joined the forces have not all returned. That, coupled with the annual natural drain, has left the teaching reservoir low. In the event of a recession in business generally, it is logical to assume that many now equipped would make their way back into the classrooms to work which, while not the highest paid, at least enjoys an element of relative security.

On the basis of department figures, the immediate problem appears to be to get teachers in volume to fill the vacancies. But quantity will provide no lasting or satisfactory solution. Quality is also essential. Without it, the vocation's aspirations for higher professional recognition cannot be realized. Nor can the public of British Columbia be guaranteed the best possible standard of instruction for the province's children. These are obvious points which commend themselves to the Department of Education as it seeks to solve its difficulties.

Must War Come?

By JOSEPH ALSOP

This is the second of a series of three articles on "Must War Come?" by Joseph Alsop, who has just returned to the United States after a three-month tour of Europe.

WHEN THERE is danger—even remote danger—of war, it is necessary to give prayerful consideration to the time factor. What situation will usher in the crisis, and how long will it take for that situation to arise? This is another of those questions which the men in Paris, who are debating peace and thinking of war, do not permit to creep into their public speeches. But it can be said on ample evidence that the question has not been banished from their minds.

The key to the time factor can be given in three words—the atom bomb. Atomic armaments are now of value to us, in blunt language, because they give us time in which to seek an understanding with the Soviet Union. Until the Soviet Union is equipped with atomic armaments, war is unlikely. Although they have largely concealed it from their people, the Soviet leaders know the meaning of the bomb. At Potsdam, when the secret was disclosed to him, Stalin dropped his guard and showed visible dismay for the first time in the history of the wartime meetings. Much more recently Molotov is known to have admitted to certain of his non-Soviet confederates that the bomb gave the Western powers "temporary" military superiority.

FOR THE PRESENT, therefore, there will be thrusts to test American strength and firmness. There will be underground and indirect aggression. But there will be no final clash unless the Soviet leaders misjudge a situation and go too far to withdraw. Eventually, however, the successful manufacture of atomic armaments will restore to the Soviet leaders the military confidence which they now lack. And if in the interval the West has not surrendered, and no understanding has been achieved between the West and the Soviet Union, war will then be almost certain. Then the military advantage will be all on the Soviet side.

This is something that it is vitally important to grasp. The quickest way to grasp it is by studying the British position. Earlier reference has been made to the official estimate of Britain's situation, prepared some months ago for the Cabinet by the British chiefs of staff. Its known findings were: First, that the British Isles could not be successfully defended against atomic weapons and, second, that since the British Isles were indefensible, consideration should be given to transferring essential war manufactures to the dominions and colonies.

WHAT BRITAIN lacks, and what the Soviets have, is space. Space is vital, because dispersion is the only real defence against atomic weapons. The United States too has space. What she lacks and what the Soviets have, is the kind of society which permits space to be used for defence. America's essential industries—and population are heavily concentrated in great urban centres. In the strategic studies prepared by the U.S. Army General Staff and approved by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, it is estimated that mass bombardment by long-range projectiles with atomic charges would kill or disable something like 40 per cent of the people.

It would naturally destroy a far higher proportion of industrial potential. Next to the establishment of an enormous, costly and permanently altered war machine, the United States' first defensive measure would have to be replanning her urban pattern to disperse population and industry. That would call for virtual abandonment of all her great cities. She could not conceivably take this and the other needed defensive steps without changing the very basis of her society. Freedom would have to go first.

IT IS NO USE attempting to forecast a future which is still mercifully distant, at least by a number of years. But it would be foolish not to take note that the Soviet offensive against Britain began only a few months after the close of the Second World War. In the current phase it is concentrated in the Middle East and it is being waged with the weapons of political warfare and the warfare of nerves. Yet it is no less an offensive for all that, and no less clearly discloses future Soviet aims. It would also be foolish to forget Brooks Atkinson's wise observation, that Soviet policy is motivated by foolish not to take note that the Soviet leaders will never feel secure so long as the United States and Britain are dominant powers. If Soviet policy is already expansionist when Soviet military power is inferior, what will Soviet policy become when Soviet power passes that of the West?

IT IS A GRIM question. The experts are all but unanimous, however, that mass production of atomic armaments will be an effort of years for the war-ravaged, never complex industry of the Soviet Union. The time is not so short as many people suppose. Furthermore, if the atom bomb is like a time bomb, which must explode into war if it is not defused by realistic peacemaking, it is also the best hope of peace that we have.

This is true, not because the bomb is a threat, but because the simple act of internationalizing control of atomic energy will constitute a sort of permanent peace insurance. Previous systems of international co-operation have always broken down because they have contained no element outside and above competing national sovereignties. The atomic development authority proposed in the Baruch report will be precisely such an element, giving to the United Nations a special strength no league or federation in history has ever had. If Soviet policy really changes, the first sign will be acceptance of the Baruch report. And if ever an atomic development authority is established and a measure of disarmament is agreed upon, the world can live without fear.

Letters To The Editor

FOR ANIMALS

Nineteen years ago a resident of Czechoslovakia proposed the organization of a World Day for Animals observance. It was immediately put into motion in London and is celebrated early in October, in memory of St. Francis of Assisi. War has greatly hindered many of its activities but the work will continue and it has been and still is our privilege to aid the animal war sufferers, whose needs are constantly brought to our notice. No particular creed or cult is emphasized. It is the prerogative of followers of St. Francis—friend of animals—to emulate his work, for he himself walked in the steps of One who commanded us to be merciful. Although Oct. 4 is St. Francis' Day, World Day for Animals will be observed here this year Oct. 5.

Hon. Secretary - Treasurer,

Where 3 Men Were Blown To Bits On James Island

This picture shows all that remains of a two-story building, similar to that in picture below, after nearly a ton of gelatin exploded, killing three and injuring two in Thursday's disaster at the C.I.L. powder plant on James Island. Part of huge "blast barricades" which surrounded the building in which the three were filling paper cartridges with the explosive putty-like gelatin when death struck, can be seen. The heavy timbered barricades filled with sand and earth were leveled on the north side by the shock of the $50,000 explosion. The light frame building was completely smashed. Splinters of its wooden walls covered the ground for hundreds of yards surrounding the scene, as well as fragments of heavy machinery caught in the blast. See Page 13 for other exclusive pictures all taken by Times cameraman, Irving Strickland.

King Returns To Greece

ATHENS (CP)—King George II of Greece returned to his homeland today after an exile in Britain which began with the German invasion of 1941.

Meanwhile, British troops were withdrawing, as had been promised, from Athens to the interior of the troubled country. It was expected that British forces in Greece would be reduced somewhat in the near future, but there was no indication the British troops would be recalled from the country.

King George, twice exiled, landed at Eleusis, 12 miles northwest of Athens, after flying from London. He left by motor car to board a Greek warship in Salamis Bay. He presumably planned to spend the night aboard a destroyer and make his formal entry into Athens Saturday morning.

Press dispatches from Trikala, Thessaly, reported the arrest of 70 soldiers and two officers on charges of trying to seize military headquarters. Trikala is a key point in Thessaly, where military authorities have been conducting mopping up operations against armed leftist bands.

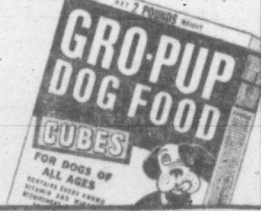

FLEW GREEK FLAG

LONDON (AP)—Aboard a private plane flying the Greek royal colors, King George II of Greece left England today to resume the throne of the strife-torn land from which advancing German armies drove him five years ago.

King George, summoned back to his throne by a better than two to one margin in a Sept. 1 plebiscite, was attired in the uniform of commander-in-chief of the Greek army as he strode across the flying field toward his plane.

Two Injured In Blast Improved; Inquiry Starts

Gordon Bowker and D. C. Wright, the two men injured in the James Island powder plant explosion Thursday which cost the lives of three, were not in serious condition, Jubilee Hospital spokesmen said today.

W. B. Paton, inspector for the explosives division of the Provincial Mines Department, went to the scene in an effort to determine the cause of the disaster.

Bowker and Wright, who reside on the island and who were rushed to hospital by C. & C. ambulance after being given first aid by R.C.A.F. nursing sisters, were struck by flying glass and splinters.

Bowker who was in a building 300 yards away at the time, was reported to be in good condition after spending a comfortable night. Wright who was walking along a company railway track about the same distance away, was reported to be in fairly good condition. He was showing an improvement over his condition Thursday.

3 ARE WIDOWED

Killed in the blast were: John McDonald, 40 years, whose wife, Annie K. McDonald, resides on Veyaness Road, Keatings; Edward Kennedy-Cameron, 31, whose wife, Marie A. Cameron, lives at Bazan Bay, and Hollie Horner Mundell, 25 years, whose wife, Eileen M. Mundell, resides at Saanichton.

McDonald had been an employee of the plant for approximately 10 years while Cameron had been on the payroll for three and a half years. He served in the army during the war and had returned to his job at the powder plant on discharge. Mundell, who also served in the army, had been an employee of the company for less than a year.

Bodies of three victims have been taken to McCall Brothers funeral directors. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

CANADA'S No.1 CITIZEN

these five ways...

Canada's future is in the hands of her people...

That future is threatened by the menace of inflation...

Canada's bulwark against this menace is the steadfast performance of her No. 1 citizens.

Here is the No. 1 citizen's five-point programme of personal finances:

- 1 Hold on to my Victory Bonds and Certificates.
- 2 Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save my money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available.
- 3 Avoid black market purchases.
- 4 Keep up my insurance.
- 5 Build up my savings account.

These five points mean conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first requisite for national security. When you shape your future on these five points, you shape the future of the nation.

This is why we say:

If You Are a No.1 Citizen You will look after No.1...

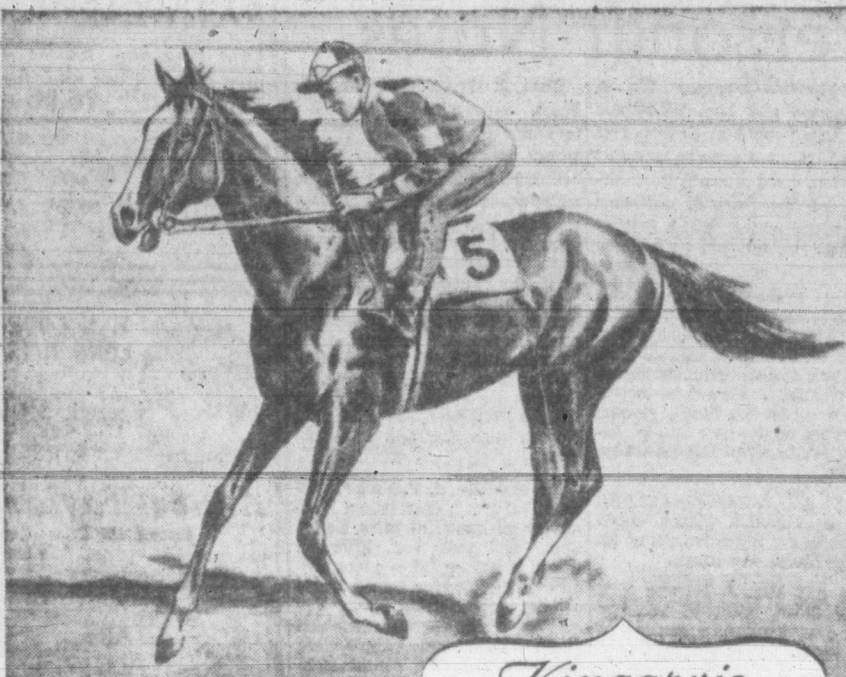

This is not selfishness, but the realization that a community is no better, no sounder than its citizens.

Buying Of Salt Eases

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of a large downtown food store reports that panic buying of salt in Vancouver, which followed a chemical workers' strike in Windsor, Ont., has leveled off. The store official said many housewives had purchased enough salt in recent weeks to last them a year. Imports from the United States, and increased deliveries from other Canadian sources, eased the shortage.

FIRST TRUCK DELIVERED FROM NEW REO CANADIAN PLANT

Reo Concentrated on Industry's Banked-Up Need for New Commercial Vehicles in Canada

When the Reo Motor Company of Canada Ltd., purchased an entire unit of the Canadian Government's wartime radar plant in the industrial centre of Leaside, Ont., early this year, the company concentrated all its modern facilities and resources towards industry's banked-up need for new commercial vehicles in Canada. This new manufacturing plant is now in production and Reo trucks and transit coaches are rolling off the assembly lines to meet this demand, both for commercial vehicles and for Canadian fabricated parts. Combined truck, bus and coach production will be far in excess of the pre-war Canadian total of the company, in order to keep pace with Canada's growing industrial and transportation needs. The acquisition of this new factory has indicated the company's faith in the industrial future of Canada, both as an expanding market for commercial vehicles and as a source of such equipment for the British Empire and for export to countries outside the Empire. On August 28th, American officials of Reo Motors Inc., made their first visit and tour of inspection of the new Reo Canadian plant.

RELIGIOUS THEME

"The Miracle of the Bells," by Russell Janney (George J. McLeod Ltd.)

THIS book will suffer from inevitable comparison with Lloyd C. Douglas' works but only because it has a religious theme, not because there is any particular similarity in the writing of Mr. Douglas and Mr. Janney.

Mr. Janney's first novel is a strange mixture of religious mysticism interspersed with a number of related anecdotes of life in the coal-mining town and through it all runs the thread of the love story of press-agent William Dunnegan for the dead heroine, Olga.

By the end of the book the Book Notes

Among new books to be published early in November by the Island Press Co-operative in New York is "Maple Leaf Up—Maple Leaf Down," a history of the Canadians in action in World War II, written by Peter Simonds, who was overseas for four years as a captain in the Royal Canadian Signals.

J. M. Dent and Sons at Vancouver are featuring a new book by Illingworth H. Kerr, titled "Gay Dogs and Dark Horses." Mr. Kerr is on the staff of the Vancouver School of Art, and has both written and illustrated this collection of stories of the Qu'Appelle Valley in Saskatchewan, where he spent his youth.

The Children's Press has awarded three art scholarships from advance royalties on the sale of "Adventure Begins at Home," due to appear from Longmans Green and Co. in October. This book has 25 examples of creative art of children, tied together with a present-day adventure story for children from eight to 12 by Margaret Friskey. All the illustrations done in six colors were selected from the work of public school children, and the royalties will go to an art scholarship fund.

An English author, Mary Renault, has been awarded the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer $125,000 prize for her novel, "Return to Night," which will be published in Canada by Longmans, Green and Co. early in 1947. It was chosen from 120 entries and is the fourth novel written by Miss Renault.

Oak Bay To Meet Solicitor With Regard To Willows

Oak Bay Council will meet with the municipal solicitor to discuss by-laws with relation to the fair grounds at the Willows, it was decided at a meeting of the council Thursday evening.

Two weeks ago the council passed a resolution to ask the municipal solicitor to draft by-laws which would allow the municipality to take action with regard to the fair grounds, stating the council had made previous unsuccessful attempts to draft effective by-laws.

The council was advised by its solicitor that it was felt it was the council's function to devise what it deemed practical and effective solutions, and not for solicitors. In addition, it was said, the municipality's relations with the fair grounds involved questions of mixed law and fact, and the law firm had no certainty that it was conversant with all the facts.

It was the opinion of the council that it would be wise to meet with D. M. Gordon, member of the law firm, and advise him of the facts and discover if the municipal solicitors could not offer aid.

Oak Bay To Improve Crossroads Corner

Oak Bay Council Thursday evening authorized A. S. G. Musgrave, municipal engineer, to improve the corner at Cadboro Bay Road and Cedar Hill Cross Road.

To reconstruct the road at that point, Mr. Musgrave told the council, it will be necessary to move a B.C. Telephone Co. pole at a cost of $75.

The land which will be affected by the improved turn was donated by E. C. Charlesworth, resident at the corner.

A letter from T. A. Watson and six others asking establishment of traffic warning signs and a crossing lane in front of the primary school on Oak Bay Ave., was tabled pending a report from the chief of police.

Oak Bay Tables Housing Appeal

Oak Bay Council Thursday evening tabled a request by the Victoria Veteran-Labor Joint Conference for assistance in forming a public policy which would halt non-essential building until the housing crisis is over.

Councillor J. V. Johnson said he thought the council would be treading on dangerous ground if it took a hand in the matter. "It depends on what you call 'non-essential,'" he said, adding that it was all very well for veterans to want houses to live in, but places for them to work in had also to be constructed.

Rotary Club Hears Address On Inflation

Sandham Graves, editor of the Daily Colonist, addressing the Rotary Club Thursday predicted disastrous effects as the result of inflation if the buying public did not show more respect for the value of the dollar.

Speaking on "What is the Value of Your Dollar?" Mr. Graves pointed out that as a result of the war and inflation, the value of money had decreased to such an extent that only a sane and sober public could prevent the repetition of an economic depression.

To prevent recurrence of hard times felt during the early 20s and 30s, the speaker urged his listeners not to encourage black market activities and to save their dollars for better times.

"Wait—buy only what you need, hold your dollars and stop any man who is spending his money foolishly," said the speaker. "This only will prevent hard times within the next two years."

Mr. Graves said the two normal economic periods of the last 25 years were 1927 and 1937, and he compared the price of materials during those years with those of today. He pointed out that a six-room house in 1937 cost a little over $2,000 while today the same house cost over $10,000.

Among the causes of inflation, the speaker said, was an attempt of one nation to sequester the world supply of gold, and the lack of respect the public had for the dollar. Inflation, he added had no beginning nor end and as it revolved in a cycle.

"A war worker was earning six times as much as a soldier fighting in a foxhole," Mr. Graves said. "These high rates of wages also helped to bring about inflation."

Approve Plans For Safeway Store

Approval of plans for construction of a Safeway Ltd. store and three houses in Oak Bay was given by Oak Bay Council meeting Thursday evening.

It is proposed to erect the Safeway store at Oak Bay Avenue and Hampshire Road. The council agreed to permit construction providing one minor alteration was made.

The house plans called for a $12,000 house at 2515 Lansdowne Road, a $9,500 house at 2520 Cotswold Road, and a $9,500 house at 2535 Cotswold Road.

Vegetable Oils Coming
OTTAWA (CP)—Housewives unable to bake pies and cakes because of insufficient shortening will be glad to learn there are substantial shipments of edible vegetable oils en route to Canada from Argentina.

A Prices Board official said to day additional supplies of shortening, derived from the vegetable oils, would be on storekeeper shelves by November in sufficient quantities to "definitely alleviate the present short supply."

Lunch Box Parade

Each year when autumn comes and school reopens after the summer vacation, a parade forms in every village, town and city in the country. It is not an organized procession with fancy costumes, flags, bands and marchers. It is a group of happy, laughing children and the banner which each child carries is a lunch box.

Who is eligible for entering this autumn parade? Those who have eaten a wholesome, adequate breakfast and have stored up energy to last until the lunch boxes are opened.

Breakfast on school days is most important. Children should be up in time to eat without haste. The menu can be simple, but it should be planned to include energy-building and regulating foods.

Here is a menu pattern for an adequate school-morning breakfast: Orange juice, crisp whole wheat flakes, milk, scrambled eggs, toast or bread, butter, cocoa or milk.

Lunch as well as breakfast should be carefully planned. Here are some rules which if followed will be helpful to the regular lunch box packer.

Select a lunch box which can be easily cleaned.

Wrap the food in wax paper or pack in small jars with tightly fitting covers. This prevents one flavor from mixing with another.

Choose a variety of foods. To avoid repetition, make sandwiches from different kinds of bread, using different fillings.

Let's Eat!

Percolator Coffee—Measure fresh cold water into percolator; place coffee basket in percolator; and measure regular-grind coffee into basket. Adjust water spreader, cover and place over heat. As soon as percolating begins, reduce heat and start counting time; seven minutes is average. Remove basket and stem and serve at once.

Scalloped Corn and Tomatoes—Combine two and one-half cups tomatoes, cut up, with one tablespoon minced onion, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, and speck of pepper in saucepan and cook 10 minutes. Add two tablespoons of shortening or fat. Then arrange tomatoes and three cups cooked kernel corn in alternate layers in one and one-half quart baking dish, sprinkling each layer of corn with salt. Top with one-half cup stale bread crumbs mixed with one tablespoon melted fat or shortening. Bake for 30 to 40 minutes in moderate oven. Serves six.

Grape Jelly Bars—Makes about two dozen bars. One-half cup sugar, one and one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half cup shortening, one teaspoon vanilla, one egg, beaten, one-quarter cup milk, three-quarter cup grape jelly.

Sift together dry ingredients. Cream shortening, add vanilla, cut into dry ingredients. Stir egg into milk. Add to flour mixture in greased baking pan. Cover with grape jelly and spread remaining mixture over top of jelly. Bake in moderately hot oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and cut in bars.

When Roasting Chicken—Rub chicken inside and out with lemon juice. This treatment will improve flavor and tenderness.

Stuffed Cucumbers—Cut six medium cucumbers in half lengthwise, remove seeds and portion. Cook in salted boiling water five minutes, then drain. Cook one cup sausage meat, add one-third cup finely chopped celery leaves, three tablespoons chopped onion, three-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sage and one cup soft stale bread crumbs and mix well together. Pile stuffing in cucumber shells and place in greased baking dish and bake in hot oven for 25 minutes or until cucumber are tender. Makes six servings.

Send Raincoats to Cleaners—A dirty raincoat, field jacket or all-weather reversible lowers your good-grooming record just as a soiled dress or suit does. All-weather clothes should be cleaned at frequent intervals if they are to look well and hold up as protective apparel. Because of conditions under which they are worn, soil becomes deeply embedded in their tightly-woven fabric and is sometimes difficult or impossible to remove without damage to material.

Dorothy Dix

YOUTHFUL HARMONY

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 18, engaged to a boy of 17. His family bought my ring. They buy all of my gifts. They want us to get married this fall and will furnish us with living quarters until he is old enough to get a good job. My family object to my engagement and to my marriage plans.

My problem is: Am I being foolish in taking this boy's love seriously? Do you think he is old enough to know what he wants in a wife and to realize the responsibility of marriage? I am the only girl he has ever gone steady with.

VERY WORRIED.

Answer: Well, daughter, you certainly have good cause to be worried if you are contemplating marrying a boy of 17 who isn't even adult enough to conduct his own courtship, but has to let Mama and Papa do it for him.

TROUBLE AHEAD

This boy seems to be unusually young and undeveloped for his age, and if you marry him you are certainly looking for trouble, because in time he will grow up and then he will want to play around and have good times and go about with other girls. And it will be a miracle if he won't resent your bossing him and if he doesn't fall in love with some other girl.

Why his parents want to marry him off so early is incomprehensible, except on the theory that if he is married he will be safe from all temptation, and that he will go along minding Mama and Papa and let them run his life for him. But things don't happen that way. The boys and girls whose parents have kept them restricted are the ones who are the most eager to jump the bars.

Your good common sense is already warning you not to marry this lad. Heed it!

Dear Miss Dix: Faced with the problem of the philandering husband, as so many women are, I didn't go off the deep end and rush to divorce court. I sat down and thought the situation over. I loved my husband. I had a nice home and beautiful children. And I decided they were worth keeping. So I held my temper, didn't let him know that I knew of his infatuation, got myself a new hair-do, got a lot of pretty clothes, and began acting gay and amusing.

I fed him on good cooking and made home such a pleasant place that he liked to stay in it. And that ended the episode. But I still keep up the technique and never let him have a dull moment because I am taking no chances.

A SUCCESSFUL WIFE

Answer: Good for you. Sportsmanship and common sense would bring many a philandering husband back if wives would only use them. For, after all, a middle-aged man's feet begin to hurt him and when night comes he wants to rest them instead of treading the primrose path with a cutie young enough to be his daughter.

The greatest mistake that wives with flirtatious husbands make is in drowning their husbands with their tears and deafening them with their reproaches, which drives them away from home, when the wife's play should be to attract them back to it.

Sinking of Titanic

Johnstown Flood

A fire, flood, earthquake or tornado that took the lives of 28,600 people would horrify every person who read about it. But when the same death toll is spread over a year, it makes little impression. Last year in the U.S. motor vehicle accidents killed 28,600 people, among them 2,300 school children, according to the National Safety Council. That is more than five and a third times the total loss of life in the four historic disasters sketched here. Along with the frightful death toll went estimated economic loss of $1,450,000,000, which includes wages lost, medical expense, overhead cost of insurance and property damage. Drive carefully and help defeat this killer.

Community Chest Campaign Underway

Work on the 1946 Community Chest campaign, whose symbol is a gay little red feather "for gallantry and service," is now in full swing at campaign headquarters in Prince Robert House.

Under the chairmanship of Roy Denny, the "special names" division is already hard at work on collections, and the money is starting to roll in on the $100,000 objective which is needed to finance the 23 member agencies. The general campaign opens Tuesday.

Telephone numbers at the campaign headquarters are: B 4200 and B 4209, having been recently changed from B 4631. Anyone wanting information on Community Chest activities or where to make their donations, can call either of these numbers.

Campaign workers will wear the little red feathers on their lapels, and by the week-end store windows and the downtown telephone poles will all be decorated with the red feather placards.

Legend has it that Robin Hood gave his men a red feather whenever they did a good deed, and thus it has been adopted to symbolize the many services that Community Chest agencies do for others.

Russia Purges Officials Of Collective Farms

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government's purge of collective farm officials accused of graft and other illegal practices has started with trials for eight men, one of whom is accused of misappropriating two suckling pigs and four sheep, front page stories in the Moscow press disclosed Thursday.

Two district secretaries of the Communist Party were among the defendants. The court action followed the recent decree signed by Premier Stalin announcing the government was cracking down on corruption in its vast system of collective farms, backbone of the Soviet agricultural economy.

Dismissal of a number of other farm officials from posts of responsibility also were announced in the press.

The officials were all from the highly productive Kuibyshev and Yarselaval provinces in the rich upper and middle Volga region.

BULB GROWING SIMPLIFIED

Bulbs, like all plant life, require proper food. In order that the bulb is not stunted, or the foliage sparse, or the stem spindly, the right proportions of Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid and Potash must be supplied.

Thanks to CIPPS, the concentrated fertilizer in tablet form, this problem is solved. Each little tablet contains the correct proportions of these elements—all water soluble and available to the bulb.

Being in tablet form, the food becomes gradually available to the bulb during the growing season. The tablet dissolves little by little whilst in the soil, providing steady and sustaining nourishment to the bulb as it grows. Thus the essential nitrogen for its basic growth, the phosphoric acid for strong root formation, and the potash for vigorous growth, disease resistance, and especially brilliancy and richness of color are there to serve their purpose every growing day.

When planting your bulbs, place one CIPPS tablet just below the surface of the soil, on each side of the bulb, repeating the dose when it appears above the ground. This will ensure hardy growth, a strong stem, and lovely bloom.

Buy the economical packet, containing 600 CIPPS, $1.00. Also in 50¢ and 25¢ packets, at your local store.

Australia Election Campaign Closes After Quiet Course

SYDNEY (CP)—A quiet campaign contested largely on domestic issues drew to a close tonight as Australians prepared to vote—under penalty of fine for non-exercise of the franchise—in tomorrow's general election.

Seeking return to office is the Labor Party, headed by Prime Minister Chifley, which held a commanding total of 49 seats in the last House of Representatives. Two opposition parties—the Liberals under Robert G. Menzies and the Country Party led by Arthur Fadden—have joined forces in an attempt tooust the government.

In the previous House, elected in 1943, Mr. Menzies counted 15 members and Mr. Fadden 10. The remaining seat in the 75-member House was held by an Independent.

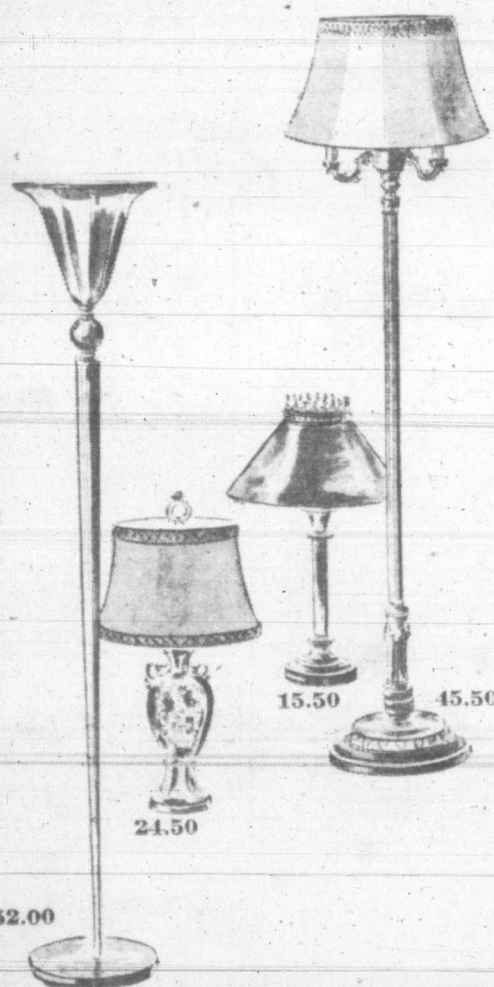

Also to be filled Saturday are 19 seats in the elective, 36-seat Senate. Normally half the body is elected every three years—maximum life of an Australian Parliament—for six-year terms, insuring a constant number of experienced senators. This year the death of Customs Minister Richard Keane left an additional vacancy. Labor men hold the 17 seats which will not be contested and thus seem assured of a majority in the Upper House. The 19 contested seats were held in the last Senate by 11 Liberals, four Labor men, three Country Party Members and an Independent.

A third issue will be placed before the electorate by a simultaneous referendum to decide whether constitutional powers of the federal government are to be broadened to permit it to increase its social services and control primary production and marketing as well as to regulate conditions of employment. The Labor government, seeking such prerogatives in the past, has been hampered by doubt regarding their legality.

Major issues of the campaign concern internal economy.

The compulsory voting law is expected to draw out a record 4,500,000 electors. Fines range up to £2 ($6.40) for failure to mark a ballot, although one may be excused from voting for a number of reasons.

Exclusive Pictures Of First James Island Fatal Accident

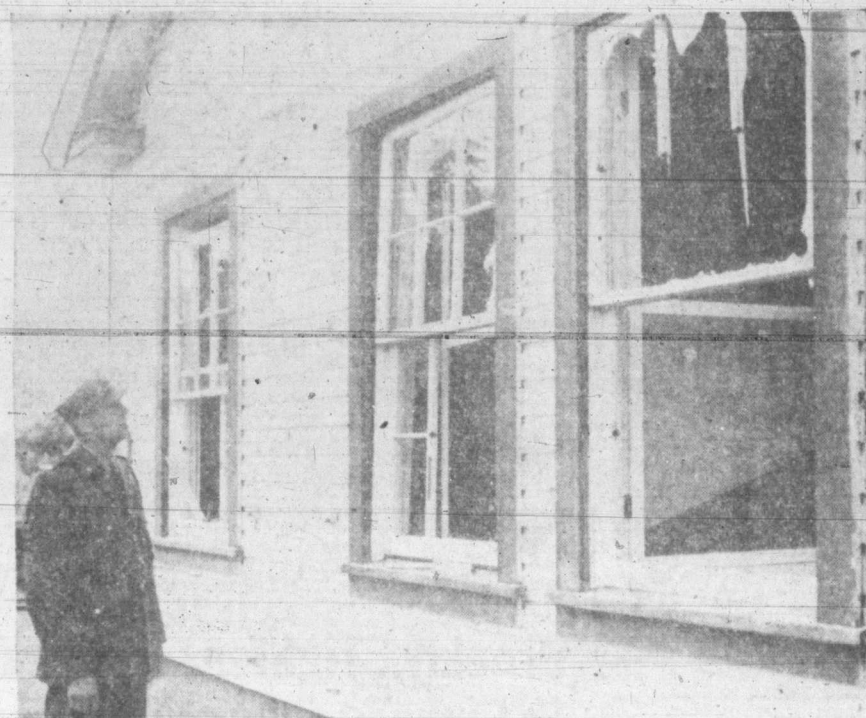

Fellow workers of the three killed in the explosion search flame-seared ground for hundreds of yards surrounding the scene, for remains and pieces of heavy machinery fragmented in the blast.

Employees of the southern part of the widely-distributed sections of the powder plant where the blast occurred, were proud of their record of having gone 1,468 days, or over four years, without having one accident from which a worker was kept from his job a single day. The record on this signboard several hundred yards away from the centre of the explosion, now will be started over again. A signboard in another section boasted a record of 10,117 days without a lost-time accident.

A drinking fountain just outside the building in which the three died, survived the blast except for the porcelain drinking bowl which was broken on one side. Sgt. C. C. Jacklin of the Victoria headquarters of the provincial police inspects the damage.

Constable R. W. Sinclair of the B.C. police detachment at Sidney, who was the first police investigator at the scene, inspects the shattered wall of a building, 300 yards away from the centre of the explosion, in which Gordon Bowker, one of two workers injured, was struck by splinters of glass.

Metal pipes and machinery of a forced ventilation unit outside the "blast barricades" surrounding the demolished building, were reduced to twisted and torn wreckage.

PLANE MAKES EMERGENCY LANDING NEAR OAKVILLE — Without suffering so much as a scratch, Paul Pearson of Fort Erie, Ont., walked away from this crash, one of three planes to leave Noranda, Quebec. The heavy fog forced another plane to land at Orillia, Ont. Bruce and Harvey Lyon examine the damage.

MODERN DIOGENES — "Billy Whiskers," whose right name is William Schnell, has roamed every state in the U.S. carrying a lighted lantern. He's pictured before the office of the Courier-News, Elgin, Ill., where, asked about his lantern, he explained, "I'm looking for an honest editor."

Geared To Ears

Fine precision-machined parts, originally used in bomb sights and other military devices, have been made into jewelry. Buffed down and gold-plated, brass sprocket chains become chokers and bracelets, as do aluminum and bronze bushings. Earrings are made from fine coiled springs, gear wheels and bushings. At top, Ellen Brooks models earrings made of aluminum sector gears, shown in close-up below. Idea of novel, costume pieces was conceived and executed by Raymond and "Marguerite" Dodd of New York.

QUICK WIT EARNS MEDAL — Centre of attraction for his fellow students at St. Francis De Paula School, Chicago, is 12-year-old John Popelka. They're shown admiring the medal which the Illinois Central Railroad recently presented to him for his quick-wittedness in reporting a fallen power line, thus preventing possible serious accidents and damage.

RIDES FOR AMPUTEE VETS — First to benefit under the U.S. government's $30,000,000 program to furnish new autos to amputee veterans is Richard A. Tenelly, ex-Marine combat correspondent. A former Washington, D.C., newspaperman, Tenelly was a radio network correspondent in Tokyo when the war began. Japs took him prisoner but later he was returned to the U.S. in an exchange. Anxious to get into the Pacific battle he enlisted in the Marines as quickly as possible. Two Jima battle wounds eventually resulted in loss of his left leg. Above, he receives his new car at Washington from William Krebs of Silver Spring, Md.

FOLIO DOESN'T STOP HIS SCHOOLING — When Dayton, Ohio, schoolbells rang recently for the opening of the fall term, 8-year-old Billy De Smith responded, despite the fact that he is crippled by polio. Stricken in 1944, he kept up his studies at home and now is permitted to attend school. Above, in wheelchair, he's pictured studying in his third-grade classroom.

Sports Mirror

By JACK GAMBLE
If you ever wanted to get rich quick, this is the year for it. Apace with the speed of atomic propulsion, supersonic planes and rocket bombs, a number of United States citizens have been making money at the rapid rate of dollars per minute instead of the penny cents per hour.
Looking back to the days of '89, all the boys thought the quick way to get rich was to hit for the Klondike. But the average miner was lucky if he panned $2 an hour during the gold rush period. A few of the more fortunate took upwards of $60 an hour from the ground on peak days.

Joe Louis: $169,020 per minute against Schmeling

Now for comparison, let us delve into the history of Joe Louis for a moment. He gets the bouquet as the all-time fast money artist. In 1938 he knocked Max Schmeling flat in 2:04 for a purse of $349,288. This divides out at $169,020 per minute, considerably faster than the mint prints it.

Assault: At $45,900 per minute—you'd laugh too.

In the current sports picture a horse has it all over the competition for 1946 quick cash honors. In the Kentucky Derby this year, Assault raced to win $96,400 in 2:06 3/5. That's $45,900 per minute—which ain't hay, brother, but it sure means oats in the feedbag.

A Texas boy, Alvin M. Johnson, proved himself a fast chap for making a buck by pushing his P-39 around the Cleveland air races at $73.75 an hour, to win $19,200 in just 48 minutes, or $400 a minute.

Let's clamor out of the sporting ranks briefly for a look in other directions. Andrew Mellon, for instance, the financier and one-time U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, who wracked up $7,000,000 in one year, the highest amount ever reported, for a breakdown of $2,913 a work hour or $48.50 every minute of the work hours.

And, out in Hollywood, is a shipshape naval officer recently broke a record for quick coinage by just standing still and letting his mouth go. Lt. Cmdr. Jack Weiss of Chicago, answered eight geographical questions in eight minutes to "Break the Bank" on the radio show of the same name, and collected $5,225, which boils down to $653 per minute.

When Rocky Graziano, left, and Tony Zale meet in Yankee Stadium tonight, it will be New York's first look outdoors at middleweight leaders since 1933. And if you'll take it from Joe Louis, Zale will retain his crown. "We grew up together as amateurs," says Joe, "and Tony's a much better ringman than he gets credit for being. He takes a punch better than Rocky and he's harder to hit." That's Commission Doctor Nardiello bending an ear to the champion's heartbeats while Graziano looks on awaiting his turn for a similar "frisk."

Brooklyn Tightens National League Race; Greenberg On Late Season Homer Spree

Hank Greenberg, Detroit's hard-hitting first baseman, who yesterday collected his 43rd and 44th home runs, needs only one in each of the Tiger's last three games to break Rudy York's single month record of 18 established in August, 1937.

Although he has reached the 40-mark in four baggers four times, in only one other year has the big first baseman topped this season's total. That was in 1938 when he came within two of tying Babe Ruth's record of 60.

Greenberg's pair of round-trippers yesterday brought his September total to 16 as he helped Tigers defeat St. Louis Browns 6 to 3.

The battling Brooklyn Dodgers cut St. Louis Cardinals' National League lead to a mere half-game when they defeated Philadelphia Phils 8 to 2 before a capacity crowd of 31,708 at Ebbets' Field.

Bay Girls Splendid Fastball Record Lauded At Banquet

The Hudson's Bay senior B women's fastball team were the guests of the parent department store at a dinner held at the Bar K Ranch Thursday night. Gifts were presented to coaches and members of the team.

The Bays had an enviable record during the season, winning 33 out of 37 games and being the the fellow who performed the "seemingly impossible feat" of coating a piece of ice cream in hot chocolate, the inventor netting a cool $30,000 a week, $625 an hour on a 48-hour week basis, and Edgar Wallace, the mystery specialist who once earned $20,000 in 45 hours in writing his novel "The Devil Man," $444 an hour—which is quite ice cream, but it's getting warm.

The sad angle about all this is that the industrialists like Mellon and the other high-income bracket folk made that kind of dough every working minute of the year. The flyer, radio contestant, mystery writer, prizefighter and the horse had it coming in fast for a few lucrative moments—and in some cases after many weeks of preparation.
It's being consistent that counts in the rapid-riches racket—but at $653 per minute, who cares about consistency? It still beats our average wage of $1 an hour.

HANK GREENBERG ... on homer spree

The Dodgers got off to a one-run lead in the first inning, knocked out Charlie Schanz in the fourth with a four-run outburst, and added two more against Oscar Judd of Ingersoll.

only Victoria club to bring a provincial title to the city.

D. H. McDuffey, personnel superintendent, Hudson's Bay Co., lauded the team for its fine play and sportsmanship during the season. Cec Walton replied for the club.

Present were: Eileen Newton, Mickey Patterson, Vicki Lyle, Mary Manson, Vicki Murray, Fay Andrejcek, Ruth Murray, Gerie Pumfrey and Dot Woodward, team members; Roy Taylor, president of the Beaver Club, and Joan Winning, assistant personnel superintendent.

Boston Mound Staff Has Edge; World Series Dates Released

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Boston Red Sox, with Dave (Doc) Ferris, Tex Hughson and Mickey Harris all rested up and raring to go, will boast a huge advantage over either St. Louis Cardinals or Brooklyn Dodgers in world series pitching.

Seldom, in fact, has the representative of either league appeared on the surface so thoroughly to outclass its series opponent on the mound.

Ferris, the brilliant sophomore, had won 23 games and lost but six as of Thursday. Hughson, another big right-hander, had hung up a 19-11 mark, and Harris, the club's southpaw artist, stood at 17-8.

The Cardinals possess in Howie Pollett the one flinger either on their own or the Brooklyn roster whose record indicates he might stand up with Boston's star-spangled array.

Pollett, a stylish southpaw who has won 20 and lost nine while working 21 complete games, would be a cinch to open the series in St. Louis. He also could come back fully rested for the fourth game at Boston, and then easily make a third appearance if the playoff returned to St. Louis.

NAME CARDS' PROBABLE STARTING PITCHERS

The Cards' two most likely starters besides Pollett would appear to be Murry Dickson, a right-hander who blossomed in mid-season to run up a 14-6 record, and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, a left-hander whose season record, 14-15, does not look so hot, but who can pitch brilliant Ont., and one at the expense of Charlie Stanceu.

Chicago Cubs came up with four runs in the last half of the eighth with the Braves, as Boston was held to a split by New York Giants.

Monty Cooper nabbed the first game for the Braves 8 to 0 with a neat three-hit performance, but the Giants won the second 5 to 4.

With Mickey Haefner out-pitching Jess Flores, Washington Senators shut out Philadelphia Athletics 2 to 0.

More Arrests, Convictions For Pickets In Prairie Farm Strike

EDMONTON (CP)—Renewed arrests and convictions were reported today in the 30-day delivery strike by 20,000 members of the Alberta Farmers' Union as strike officials moved to consider proposals made by the Dominion government for settling the holdout now 21 days old and which has spread to Saskatchewan.

P. V. Heck and Norman Hold were arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police near Alliance, 115 miles southeast of Edmonton, following a picket line incident. They were charged with intimidation and each was fined $35 and costs, but details of the incident were not immediately learned.

The two brought to 29 the number of convictions in scattered incidents of violence since the A.F.U. called the strike Sept. 6 with the Dominion establishment of a fact-finding board to determine parity between farm costs and returns as its main demand.

Farmer pickets have been warned by authorities and strike leaders to avoid violence and police have moved swiftly to deal with cream-dumping and wheat-dumping incidents in the strike, which has been joined by the United Farmers of Canada whose 30,000 members are confined to Saskatchewan. The U.F.C. has issued a strike call to its members.

Meanwhile, the A.F.U.'s central strike committee was scheduled to meet here late today to discuss a proposal by Agricultural Minister Gardiner that the two striking farm organizations present their views to the Agricultural Prices Support Board. Mr. Gardiner said that board had all the power and more than that of any fact-finding board which the farmers asked be set up.

A building permit has been issued to J. Romain to build a five-room house at 401 St. Charles Street, costing $5,000.

John Kennedy Says U.S. Will Always Offer Britain Aid

The U.S. will always come to the aid of Britain... eventually, and even if unwillingly, according to John B. Kennedy, U.S. radio commentator and former editor of Colliers magazine, who is now visiting Victoria.

Mr. Kennedy believes the U.S. would have to go to the aid of Britain, and wondered where the U.S. would have been now if Britain had fallen to Hitler. "When I looked at Britain standing alone in the dark days, I used to get pretty glum," he admitted.

Right now, Mr. Kennedy believes Europe is in a mess and that Britain cannot stay out of it. In fact, in his opinion, the solution to teaching Germany democracy is to take her into the British Commonwealth.

Canada, he pointed out, was a fine example of democracy where justice was predominant. He used, as an illustration, the fair trial of Russian agents at Ottawa. Russia would probably have shot Canadian spies apprehended there, he believed.

Democratic principles observed by the U.S. and the British Commonwealth made the state subservient to the people, and actions by the state were subject to the active disapproval of the people.

The choice of the Kaiser, Bismarck and, worst of all, Hitler, showed the trouble with the German people was their choice of leaders, according to Mr. Kennedy.

Saanichton Man Heads Postmasters

VANCOUVER (CP) — Capt. Nathaniel Gray of Saanichton was elected president of the British Columbia Branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association at the annual convention here Thursday.

The veteran postmaster has been secretary of the B.C. postmasters' group since 1935, and at one time served as vice-president. He has been a member of the B.C. group since its inception, and before that was a member of the Dominion association.

Fail To Reach Air Conference By Plane

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS — Three air enthusiasts who planned to arrive at the Provincial Air Conference in proper style, by plane, met with grief in their ambitious undertaking.

Starting from Cranbrook in the afternoon they encountered bad weather and tried a forced landing near Hope.

They almost made it when they encountered a soft spot, which turned the twin-engine Cessna Crane over on its back, damaging the plane somewhat but causing no injury to the passengers.

They continued their journey by police car to Hope, and came from there to Harrison Hot Springs by taxi, arriving several hours late for the conference.

The daring air-minded delegates were Don Keeble, Cranbrook; E. Whistlercraft, and Bob Niven, both of Kimberley.

Spent 2 Years Trailing Eskimo Woman Murderess

VANCOUVER (CP) — The story of a two-year effort to bring an Eskimo murderess to justice was related by one of the passengers on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol ship Saint Roch, which docked here Thursday after a hazardous Arctic voyage.

Constable Arthur Levins of Carban, Alta., trailed the Eskimo woman, Ananglak, after she had shot her husband 250 miles from Cambridge Bay in October, 1944.

Report of the shooting did not reach Constable Levins until May of the following year, and when he reached the scene the woman had gone inland to hunt caribou. He did not trail her down until several months later.

Ananglak was tried at Coppermine and was sentenced to one year and nine months' imprisonment, which she will serve at the R.C.M.P. barracks at Cambridge Bay.

Ananglak's sentence for murder was light according to white man's standards, but consideration was given to the fact that many Eskimos are unfamiliar with the white man's laws.

Pittsburgh Supply Of Power Running Dangerously Low

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The power supply in this industrial city sank nearer the danger point today as a strike of 3,200 employees of the Duquesne Light Company went through its fourth day with wage negotiations continuing but no new contract in sight.

Public tenseness relaxed somewhat as an early morning union order sent 2,800 streetcar motor-men back to their jobs to man trolleys which had stood idle since 5 a.m. Thursday, crippling the city's transportation system and stranding thousands of workers.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company announced it would continue to give the "limited" service it had been offering since the power strike started — 50 per cent of normal "off-peak" operation, which meant that about 225 of the system's 1,200 cars would be running.

About 28,000 other workers remained idle as a result of power curtailments.

Electricity in Duquesne Light's lines overnight was reported at 31 per cent of normal, compared with 40 per cent Thursday and 45 per cent the day before.

Pickets marched in front of the company's power stations and substations, where supervisory workers and officials of the firm tried to keep enough current flowing to supply vital needs. Some power was being furnished by other companies and many concerns put private generating plants in operation.

The union is asking a 20 per cent pay raise and other benefits.

No Photographing As Nazis Sentenced

KUERNBERG (AP) — The International Military Tribunal has ruled that no photographs will be taken at the sentencing of Nazi war crimes defendants here next week. The tribunal unanimously rejected even attempts to have documentary pictures made by an official photographer from a hidden position in a booth.

The courtroom is to be cleared of all photographers and cameras just before the sentencing.

BERLIN (AP) — A public opinion survey conducted by the American Military Government indicated today most Germans believe the 21 defendants at Nuremberg are guilty of planning the war and almost half

Of the persons interviewed, 57 per cent indicated they first learned about concentration camps through the trials, and 30 per cent said they first learned about annihilation of the Jews.

Seventy per cent of the Germans polled said all defendants were guilty, 9 per cent named at least one defendant they considered innocent, 1 per cent held none was guilty and 20 per cent ventured no opinion.

Movie Crews' Strike At Hollywood Brings Threat Of Violence

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie strike entered its second day with Conference of Studio Unions leader Herbert K. Sorrell telling newspapermen that "there may be men killed before this is over, but we're in no mood to be pushed around any more."

Police jailed 12 pickets Thursday. The Superior Court, acting at the behest of Warner Brothers' Studio, granted a temporary restraining order limiting the number of pickets within 200 feet of that big plant to 50.

The resumption of C.S.U. picketing Thursday in the jurisdictional fight with International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees caused production to be suspended temporarily at M-G-M and Warners. These two studios, Mr. Sorrell claimed, are the principal targets of the C.S.U. because "they are the worst anti-union studios."

RIO THEATRE

Starring Peggy Ann Garner with a brilliant supporting cast including Allyn Joslyn, Michael Dunne, Faye Marlowe and Mona Freeman, "Junior Miss," the 20th Century-Fox film version of the Broadway stage sensation that had New York howling for two straight years is currently at the Rio Theatre.

The film tells the story of a madcap teen-ager, whose lively imagination sets her family's life topsy-turvy in what is being called the most hilarious series of sequences filmed in a long time.

YORK THEATRE

More arrows were shot during one week of filming on Columbia Pictures' technicolor production, "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest," currently starring Cornel Wilde at the York Theatre, than were hurled from bows at Agincourt, decisive battle of the Middle Ages.

Hollywood's cloud of arrows was estimated at 50,800 by Howard Hill, archery expert, and were projected by close to 1,000 archers.

Motion Picture History In Making

A history of motion pictures could be made with four of the leading featured players in Republic's thrilling romantic adventure, "In Old Sacramento," which stars William Elliott and Constance Moore and opens today at the Dominion Theatre.

Eugene Pallette, Ruth Donnelly, Grant Withers and Lucien Littlefield all have been in pictures for at least 20 years apiece. Pallette started in 1910, while Miss Donnelly was a star for the "Imp" studios in New York in 1914. Withers was a leading romantic figure in silent pictures of the 20's, and Littlefield has been one of Hollywood's best character actors for many years.

ATLAS THEATRE

There's plenty of two-fisted adventure on the Atlas screen today where Clark Gable, back from the war front after three and a half years, and Greer Garson make their first film appearance together in M.G.M.'s eagerly-awaited drama, "Adventure."

Gable comes back in another of his virile, red-blooded characterizations as the scrapping, romancing bo'sun of a freighter. Miss Garson switches to sophisticated comedy and does a little punching on her own!

Joan Blondell is the "other woman" and Thomas Mitchell Gable's hard-drinking pal.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Brian Donlevy and William Demarest portray a couple of bootleggers who get involved in the adventures of Emily and Cornelia, those two young-and-gay girls, in Paramount's comedy, "Our Hearts Were Growing Up."

The film, now entertaining audiences at the Capitol Theatre, is even more hilarious than "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Diana Lynn and Gail Russell are co-starring with Donlevy, and Billy De Wolfe has an important featured role.

OAK BAY

The hilarious exploits of a draftee who thinks he has every disease in the dictionary are the basis of "Up In Arms," Samuel Goldwyn's newest technicolor musical film for RKO Radio, now showing at the Oak Bay Theatre. Danny Kaye, sensational stage funster, heads the cast and shares vocal honors with Dinah Shore.

ROYAL THEATRE

Despite the fact that they both were starred in "Flesh and Fantasy," Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Cummings met for the first time on the opening day of production of Paramount's "The Bride Wore Boots." The comedy, co-starring them with Diana Lynn is now at the Royal Theatre.

PLAZA THEATRE

Arm yourself with an anti-goose pimple lotion! Universal's "House of Dracula" has moved into the Plaza Theatre.

The horror vehicle, a successor to that studio's recent "House of Frankenstein," reunites the terror threesome, Lon Chaney as the Wolf Man, John Carradine as Count Dracula, the human vampire, and Glenn Strange in the role of the Frankenstein monster.

Inspector Larsen Returns After 15 Months In Arctic

There is excitement in the home of Mrs. H. A. Larsen, 1566 Hampshire Road, today. Mrs. Larsen and her children are expecting "Daddy" home.

Sub-Inspector Henry A. Larsen of the R.C.M.P., who left Victoria in June, 1945, returned to Vancouver Thursday with his ship, the police patrol vessel St. Roch, back from a year in the snow and ice wilderness of the Arctic. The vessel will be brought to Victoria shortly for wintering.

St. Roch, only ship in the world to sail the Northwest Passage both ways, spent last winter at Cambridge Bay, far inside the Arctic Circle. The ship served as a headquarters for the crew as they patrolled the Arctic by dog-sled.

Some members of the crew were flown out by flying boat to Edmonton last fall but Inspector Larsen and others spent the winter at the ship.

Among those flown out last fall was Engineer George Peters of 1312 Summit Avenue. He returned a couple of months ago by flying boat to take charge of the St. Roch's engine-room for the return trip to civilization.

Returning with the St. Roch crew was Constable A. C. Levens, 25, of Alberta, who had not been "outside" since 1942. His farthest patrols took him 1,000 miles from the ship and lasted as long as 40 days.

NATIVE GRIEVANCE

Constable Peters reported the Eskimos around Cambridge Bay had a grievance against the white men. Despite sub-zero temperatures and biting Arctic winds the common cold was unknown to them before the arrival of white men.

"They never catch a cold except when an aircraft arrives with the benefits of civilization," said Mr. Peters. "We also never had one until we made contact with Operation Muskox, then we all had colds."

"I guess the Arctic is a place you want to go back to," said Inspector Larsen. "Every time the spring comes I want to be off again."

He ought to know. He has spent a good part of the last decade in the Arctic.

Legion Council Asks College Get Better Quarters

A request to the provincial government and the Greater Victoria School Board to give immediate consideration to, and make arrangements for better quarters for Victoria College, if necessary by transfer to a more suitable building, was passed Thursday night by the Victoria District Council of the Canadian Legion.

The council said in its resolution that the rehabilitation of 250 returned service personnel who were among the students at the college was being retarded because of inadequate accommodation there.

Another resolution passed by the council strongly objected to criticism of the Victoria Citizens' Rehabilitation Council and its chairman, Forrest L. Shaw, by G. Murchison, director of the Veterans' Land Act, in a letter to the Victoria Colonist on Sept. 17.

"Furthermore, we fully endorse the findings and recommendations made by the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council regarding the administration of certain parts of the Veterans' Land Act," the council's resolution, sent to Veterans' Minister Ian Mackenzie and Mr. Murchison, said.

START ON HOUSING

Conversion of the former army huts at Tillicum Road into 34 suites for veterans' families would be started today, it was announced.

Robert Knight, chairman, left after the meeting for Vancouver to arrange for additional materials for the project.

Lumber mills are co-operating in providing the lumber, and the council acknowledged great help had been received from Forrest L. Shaw and D. K. Kennedy in this work.

In addition to the self-contained suites, which will be occupied by 34 families—drawn from Citizens' Rehabilitation Council files, the camp will have

DELEGATES NAMED

G. H. Thompson and A. H. C. Jones were named delegates to the Joint Veterans-Labor Council conference on housing at Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, Oct. 20.

The council appealed for an office to be used here in connection with the annual poppy day campaign. It was suggested prizes be offered for window decorations during the campaign.

A letter was read from Deputy Veterans' Minister Woods stating that the Canadian Legion would start on a Class 5 veterans' hospital for which property had been donated by Victoria. Mr. Woods said the matter was now the subject of correspondence with the regional director of the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Empire's Chief Scout Canadian Club Speaker

Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Empire, will address members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon to be held at the Empress Hotel Monday at noon, Eric Pepler announced today.

Lord Rowallan, who is on a coast tour, is the third Chief Scout having succeeded the late Lord Somers who, in turn, was the successor of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the movement for youth.

With some 25 years of training and active service in the Boy Scout movement, the Chief Scout will speak on the activities and progress of the association since its foundation by Lord Baden-Powell.

Boy Scout and Girl Guide leaders have been invited to attend the Canadian Club meeting for this occasion.

Ask Dominion-Provincial Aid To Build Municipal Airports

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS—Both the provincial and Dominion governments will be asked to assist municipalities in obtaining airports, it was decided at the opening of the fifth annual conference of the B.C. Aviation Command and forwarded to the Dominion Command.

With Ald. B. J. Gadsden, presiding at the first session, delegates warmly endorsed the Victoria-sponsored resolution approved by the Union of B.C. Municipalities, calling upon the provincial government to lay out a province-wide program of assistance to municipalities in airport development.

"Aviation in B.C. must be recognized by the Dominion government as well as the provincial government or flying in the province will be a 'hit and miss' affair rather than an accepted fact," President C. E. Scanlon told the 67 conference delegates.

"The Canadian government must set up a definite policy for establishment of airports."

He proposed setting up a new organization, as the hoped-for B.C. Council charter had not materialized owing to lack of response from municipalities.

Delegates concentrated on discussion of how the municipalities could obtain airports without being held up by "buck passing" between the federal and provincial governments.

William Lawson, district inspector of airways, Department of Trade and Commerce, told the conference that his department would give any information required on request.

"The department will inspect any proposed site, but the length of the landing strip must be no less than 2,000 feet with a breadth of 500 feet," he said.

He added that municipalities must get together to arrange costs and means of meeting the tax bill before taking over or building their own airports.

War-time airports can be rented to municipalities at $1 a year with 25 per cent insurance, the conference was told by A. D. McLean, controller of civil aviation, Ottawa.

S. Leslie Price, secretary of the municipal airport board at Chilliwack, outlined the success of that city in building a municipal airport. Experience had

Dealings Drop To Low For Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks generally back-tracked in today's market without being subjected to any real pressure and dealings dwindled to a low for the month.

From the start the list appeared tired after three successive recovery sessions. While the ticker tape frequently was at a standstill, declines of fractions to three or more points were well distributed by midday. Some support arrived in the final hour to reduce extreme losses in most cases near the close and put a number of issues in the plus ranks.

Canadian issues sagged with the midday market. Hiram Walker dropped one point, Canadian Pacific 1/4 and McIntyre 1/4. Distillers Seagram gained 1/4.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:
30 Industrials 174.09, off .87
20 rails 48.42, off .26
15 utilities 34.78, off .09
65 stocks 62.33, off .30

Ranger Association Plans To Continue P.C.M.R. Activities

The new Ranger Association, now in process of organization here, will perpetuate the ideals and activities of the former Pacific Coast Militia Rangers, T. A. H. Taylor, former commanding officer of the P.C.M.R. and now manager-director of the association, said today.

In the reorganized body, the former extensive area covered by No. 1 company of the P.C.M.R. will be divided into four smaller areas, he said, each covered by a company of the association.

A. D. Walker will head the company at Jordan River, Chris Pike the Metochon company, G. E. Bernard the Sooke company and J. W. King the Victoria company.

No. 1 company of the P.C.M.R. had an enviable record, having been the first of the Ranger units formed in 1942, when danger threatened the west coast, while danger lasted it kept a watchful guard along the coastline, which elicited highest praise from senior service officers.

Its work in search and rescue in cases of missing aircraft was outstanding and Ranger Capt. C. W. Burr, who commanded the company from inception to stand-down, received a personal letter of thanks and appreciation from the air officer commanding.

Capt. Burr was ably assisted by Capt. Gordon Sward.

The new organization will continue the use of the Ranger badge with double-bladed axe crossed with a carbine, a Maple Leaf, a thunderbird and the motto, Vigilans.

One Woman's Day

CONCENTRATION CAMP

IN YESTERDAY'S mail I received a moving document which will be of particular interest to women as it tells of the ghastly ordeal undergone in Ravensbrück concentration camp by Lady Tiphaine Lucas.

It was accompanied by a personal letter from Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., who formerly resided in Victoria and who went back to England a few months ago.

Mrs. Watt is president of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, with which our Canadian Women's Institutes are affiliated. Lady Tiphaine is the vice-president, and Mrs. Watt has known her and her family for many years.

BACKGROUND OF SERVICE

LADY TIPHAIN was an elderly French woman. Her first husband was a French admiral, her second was with the British Admiralty.

Her mother, Comtesse Bois de Boisel, was president of the French Red Cross and her sister, Comtesse Kersnach de Kersneze, president of the French Cercle des Femmes.

A daughter, Helen Berge le Grand, did exceptionally good work for the British, also the French Ministry of Information in the first years of the war, while she was still County Commissioner of Girl Guides for Hampshire, England.

Lady Tiphaine and her other daughter, Susan, remained in her Paris home rather than escape to their English country home because they wished to help with the French Red Cross and the resistance movement.

HELPED ALLIED AIRMEN
ONE SON WAS killed while serving in France, the other is in the British navy. Lady Tiphaine sheltered Allied airmen in her Paris home, until betrayed in 1943 and taken to a concentration camp.

The foregoing is given by Mrs. Watt as a background to Lady Tiphaine's tragic story, which has been published in a leaflet by the A.C.W.W.

She was of a small minority of sick, old women who succeeded in surviving the horrors of the Ravensbrück concentration camp, where she was confined from 1943 till 1945.

She was taken there from the prison camp near Compiègne in bitterly cold weather in January. And with 60 other women traveled in a sealed truck, whose original markings read: "Eight horses; 40 men."

Herded together thus, they traveled for three days and three nights under revolting conditions, without air, light or water.

MASS ORDEAL
IN ALL, 980 WOMEN were placed in her part of the camp, which had only five lavatories, to say nothing of veritable armies of vermin.

The first few weeks were comparatively quiet. But the women were subjected to the dreadful ordeal of frequent mass medical examinations, Lady Tiphaine recalls.

"I remember the terrible day in January, snow falling in huge flakes, when the matron of the hospital made five of us French women stand naked for an hour with our 250 Russian companions because some of them had made too much noise, she said. By her orders four windows and two doors were kept open in the teeth of the storm. Next day two of my friends had double pneumonia."

But in April, the regular routine began. This involved getting up at 3.30 a.m., followed by ersatz coffee at 4. Then at 4.30 they were all lined up out of doors. In all weathers, there to stand without moving and at attention for a period varying from an hour to three and a half hours, depending on the pleasure of the brutal women S.S. guards.

CONDITIONS WORSE
BUT IT BECAME even worse the following winter. Women fell dead during the outdoor roll call and their frozen bodies were left at the feet of the others. Some of the details are too revolting to print.

No coal nor heat of any description was provided. Food was cut even from the already meagre rations. The women had to sleep three in a bed, in tiered bunks only 27 inches wide and had to share them with the dying.

By this time there wasn't a pane of glass left in the hut windows. The inmates were all covered with vermin, as they had to wear the same clothes day and night, and washing facilities were practically nil.

"The death rate went up at a staggering rate, reaching several hundreds a day; the bodies were dumped in the washing quarters, where the only drinking water came from. Our bedclothes were never disinfected; beds where women had just died were used again immediately, even in cases where death had occurred from typhoid."

HUNTED BY KILLER
BEATINGS WERE A DAILY part of the program. Then Dr. Winkelmann was sent from the Auschwitz camp to comb out the sick, the insane, the incurable, who were sent to the gas chamber by the vanload. She goes on:

"We tried to hide ourselves in disused quarters, hiding under the bedding, in coat closets, anywhere we could. But the dreadful 'killer' hunted for us everywhere, and when we were found made us run, and if our poor legs, swollen with hunger oedema, failed us we knew we were doomed. . . . Out of my 36 companions, 16 died or were gassed in one week. I remained the sole survivor of the 'over fifties'. The furnace in the crematorium burnt day and night with huge sinister red flames, giving out a stale and sickening smell of burning flesh with which we were enveloped. Six hundred were now dying each day."

"For the remaining 300 of us this ghastly period came to an end one wonderful Easter day; the evening before a momentous piece of news had come through all we French women were to be collected for probable exchange and repatriation. . . ."

"The miracle came to pass later, when a convoy of white vans, bravely flying the flag of the International Red Cross of Geneva, came to free us from hell and take us back to
